

7. Neptis sandaka (Btlr., 1892)

The oldest name for the "form" of Neptis hordonia (Stoll) with the "light male mark" (see Cbt. & Pend., p. 220) is sandaka Btlr. It is undoubtedly a good species, which differs from hordonia in the following additional respects: the ground colour is deeper orange; on UpF the submarginal orange line is conspicuous and much wider than the grey line internal to it (this grey line being always prominent in hordonia); the cilia in spaces 4, 5, 7 and 8 on F are not prominently chequered as in hordonia.
